

A MESSAGE OF HOPE

By Jan Diana

My Beloved Children of Heart,

“It is with great pleasure that I greet you this day. I have an important message of hope that will lift your hearts.

The Wonderful World you dwell upon is undergoing great changes. You are a part of these changes. Change can bring experiences that may be unpleasant and yet you will be able to move through them.

Let the old energy, thoughts and patterns that are based on fear and lack release. Allow yourselves to open up to a grand view of lighter possibilities.

You are at an important time in your life. Your choices and how they affect your experience are being shown to you ever more so than before.

This allows you an opportunity to remember your sacred truth. Within that truth is the knowledge of your innate nature and abilities to create lighter realities.

You have always been an active participant in creating your personal and collective realities. Now, more than ever before you will see, sense and feel the power of your choice of thoughts and actions.

You can create easier in the new lighter Earth energies that are now available. Focus your desires from your heart, which flavors these choices with a greater vision of wisdom and a knowing of the divine plan you have devised with the Creator for your life.

It is time to reconnect with yourself in greater awareness. Can you feel the joy this brings to your heart as you hear these words!

Imagine now a new focus. Picture the new realities you would love to experience. Let go of what appears as a reality filled with issues and for the moment focus on the dream world you would love to live within.

As you shift your focus to the greater vision, you will feel a lessening of your fears and concerns. The power of choice of focus is within your hands. It is your divine right.

Perceptions will change as your focus is shifted toward a brighter vision. What seem like a hopeless situation restores to a vision of hope and possibilities.

Your nature is of evermore love and joyfulness. As you focus on the dreams of your heart, the vision becomes more real to you. This then leads you to knowing that you can indeed have and live the blessings of your dreams.

You are a great master of love in the process of remembering your divine authentic truth and nature. It is time for you now and always to remember more. You are ready.

Allow yourself to entertain thoughts of happy possibilities. What if I can really live my dreams? What if my world can really be Heaven on Earth?

I share with you today My Beloveds, that it is your destiny to remember who you are. It is your destiny to remember you are a great master of love.

Let me share with you a story of remembering. Many years ago there was a little girl. She was born to a loving family and grew up as did many other children, raised by loving parents.

One day she was out playing in her backyard garden. She loved to be out in the sunshine, in nature.

On this day she had a visit from an angel. The angel appeared as a beautiful young girl. They became playmates.

Each day as the young girl went to her favorite place to play in the garden, the angel would appear. They played and had such fun.

The joy she experienced was reflected in her smile, as she loved to smile. She loved life and would love to smile at all the people she would meet during her daily life.

One day she decided to share her story about her friend to her Mother. This news was not accepted very well. Her mother had some fear-based thoughts and concerns about her being judged and not accepted by others if she shared this. Fear based beliefs and perceptions that her mother held as well as were held by humanity influenced her response. So she counseled her daughter to not speak about this anymore.

Well the little girl was upset and felt bad that she had upset her mother. So she kept this all to herself for a while.

Then one day at a Sunday school class she shared about her angel friend with her teacher, thinking she would understand as the lesson that day was about angels. Again she was met with fear and a rebuking and told not to speak about such nonsense for how could a young child have an angel visit her?

The young girl was saddened by this. So she began to comply and to forget about her angel friend. Through the years, she buried this sweet experience deeply and went into forgetting it completely.

Years later a wonderful thing happened. She began to wake up to a greater understanding of herself. She learned how to release and let go of old beliefs and perceptions that were not aligned with her truth.

As she did so, she remembered more and more. Layers of old stories and formatting were shifted out. Her vision of herself became more clear and brighter.

The memory of her angel friend came back to her, along with many other precious experiences.

The veils of forgetting fell off. She reconnected to her truth and her soul purpose. Oh the joy that filled her heart as the lights came on.

There was no judgment about her mother or the teacher, for she knew that they acted out of their own beliefs and perceptions at the time. For you see we have all been living lives based on beliefs and perceptions that have kept our truth hidden from us.

It is time for the truth to shine ever so brightly in your life and the lives of the We of us of Earth. We can let the past go and embrace our present moment in an open way, and be ready to have the truth revealed to us in grace.

Celebrate My Beloveds for much has been and is being offered to assist you to release the veils of forgetting. Let the light shine into your heart and feel the sweetness.

You are great Masters of love. Remember who you are and savor the journey. There is greatness in you. Each of us are part of our family of love. Together we create the grand masterpiece of Our Heaven on Earth. Shamon”

With great love,
Your Beloved Mother
