

SEEDS OF GREATNESS

By Jan Diana

My Beloved Children of Heart,

“Today marks the beginning of greater tomorrows for us all. Soon spring will be upon us in many parts of the world, ushering in a time of new life and new beginnings.

As we approach this new phase of life, let us draw our attention to all the many seeds that have been planted in fertile soil. Soon they will begin to sprout and grow, ready to fulfill their planned destiny.

Such it is for us all, as many seeds have been planted waiting until the ideal timing of readiness to sprout, grow and blossom into the destiny each will reach.

Imagine a glorious field of possibilities holding all the seeds of desires held deep within your hearts. We share as a collective these dreams for a New Earth, a new playing field where all that is desired which brings joy can be easily experienced.

The dreams of so many have come together at this stage of Earth's evolution to fuel the awakening of consciousness. The seeds of these dreams were planted well before you incarnated into your Earth experience.

You were fully aware of the plans for Earth's evolution to higher consciousness. You eagerly made your choice to be an active participant in the greatest adventure ever to be.

Certainly you knew there would be challenges and yet you also knew you were up to meeting them and successfully moving through in grace. You also knew there would be great offers of assistance given to help you individually as well as the whole of the collective of Earth.

To be a part of the grandest adventure thrilled your hearts with great anticipation of the glory that awaits you and your brothers and sisters.

Today in this moment of connection of hearts, I share with you that the time is here for you to step into greater awareness of your sacred truth and the plan you made for this lifetime.

Much has changed and is changing. The flow of energy has shifted to align more with heart consciousness. Living in the heart, fueling your thoughts and desires from your heart, aligns and attunes you with the frequency of love. Divine love is your authentic truth and nature.

Though you may have found it challenging to recognize your true nature on a planet that holds duality consciousness, the time is here now to more easily make those conscious connections.

It takes focus with consciously choosing what you desire. Where your focus is directed, affects your experience and reality.

As you turn to your heart and focus from that loving perspective, your life experience will shift to greater joy. Then you will begin to more readily recognize the divine spark within yourself and within all living sentience and sentient beings.

Fueling thoughts of joy, manifests joy. With proactive and conscious choice you will develop this new way of living. Your connection to your true beingness as well as your divine nature will become more evident to you.

Celebrate all the many experiences you have had that have led you to this moment. Be grateful for them and for your opportunity to live at this chosen time.

As you recognize the value of the journey, you will be able to more easily release the old stories that offered experiences that were perhaps of lesser value than your truth.

Now is the time of a greater recognition of what is the authentic truth. There is no value in having feelings or judgments of lessness about yourself or the past. It is best to bless them and let them go, embracing the present moment and all the wonder that is unfolding into glorious possibilities.

As you release defining yourself and others to be of lesser value, you free yourself from mistruth. There is great freedom in this as it allows you to release resistance energy, ropes tied to struggle and suffering that fueled experiences of feeling separation from the source of your truth and your divinity.

Let the past go, appreciate the glorious journey and open to receive the blessings that are showering upon you. Let yourself grow in the greater lightness to a fuller remembering of the sweetness of your truth.

As spring time unfolds, notice the many seeds beginning to sprout, and the beautiful new blossoms upon the trees. Think of yourself as the great master that you are, awakening to your destiny. Your seeds of greatness are beginning to sprout and blossom into great wonderment!

Let the lightness fill you, fueling your inner desire to become fully aligned and attuned with your truth.

Mastery is a process, a glorious journey. Your seeds of greatness will grow and expand. As you evolve into higher consciousness and awareness, this will fuel even more growth and development. There are no limits to your mastery.

These are exciting times for us all, as we collectively and individually choose the path of mastery, the path of remembering our greatness. Your choice of timing is given to you, allowing you the freedom to develop as you desire.

You are who you are no matter what roles you have played or what your experiences have been thus far. The seeds of your truth grow to become that glory just as the seed of an oak tree will grow to become a beautiful tall oak tree.

Enjoy the journey of discovery. Take each moment as a gift to explore your truth. Embrace the greater vision of what can be and of whom you really are.

I celebrate you, each of you. You are the jewels of my heart. You have within you the seeds of greatness. This is your destiny.

May this message bring joy to your heart. Allow yourself to receive this truth into your hearts and minds. Enjoy the sweetness of light as it bathes you in our forever love. Shamon.”

With great love,
Your Beloved Mother
